STATE OF SECTOR UPDATE

Executive Summary

The role of Sport Manawātū is to support Palmerston North City Council (Council) to achieve its aspiration of having a connected, vibrant, and thriving city, through the mediums of play, active recreation, and sport.

This state of sector update aims to provide a high-level overview of how our sector is responding under RED restrictions. In addition, we'll be sharing some recent Sport Manawātū updates covering activities over the past two-months.

COVID 19 Impacts

We begin this report sharing some insights from the global Covid-19 pandemic and its impact locally. During the last six months, a number of scheduled programmes were either cancelled or rescheduled due to the 2021 lockdown, which significantly hampered efforts to deliver activities promoting physical activity. Following lockdown, Sport Manawātū mobilised to support and advise our sector on the Covid-19 Protection Framework (otherwise known as the traffic light framework). This unpredicted and unscheduled work consumed considerable staff time and resourcing.

What's happening nationally and trends locally

Sport NZ commissioned a review in 2020 to understand the impact of the 2020 Covid-19 lockdown on physical activity participation. The findings indicated the following:

- There was an overall drop in number of activities and duration during the March 2020 lockdown (regardless of age).
- All participation dropped post-lockdown.
- There appeared to be early signs of recovery on participation from July to September 2020. However, in April 2021 a large deficit in all indicators persists.
- Inequities increased across older adults in higher deprivation areas.
- Sales in camping equipment increased.
- Sport participation and membership in tennis and golf increased.
- Sport participation across tamariki showed a slight decrease.
- Recreational activities like walking (29% to 47%), cycling (35% to 46%) and workouts (15% to 25%) showed marked increases.

Fast forward to September 2021. Anecdotal feedback from school principals across our region suggests the following:

- Rangatahi participation in sport dropped sharply, with some students not returning to school following the 2021 lockdown.

- The cancellation of high profile national secondary school events for a second year has negatively impacted on participation numbers across the region.
- The choice to not vaccinate has seen a decrease in sport participation by rangatahi and, in some cases, tamariki. This may be due to restricted spectator access.
- Rangatahi engagement in physical activity following the lockdowns is slow, with lack of motivation, being too tired, and lacking energy being cited as reasons.
- Concerns on the welfare of rangatahi (mental health issues and increased anxiety) have surfaced.
- There has been a decline in time (hours each week) spent being physically active.
- Regular sector updates from Sport NZ and Recreation Aotearoa on changing guidelines.

When analysing this information, the following commentary can be considered:

- The decline in physical activity for 18 to 34-year-olds, and existing high rates of adult mental illness, may increase the relevance and importance of physical activity interventions for this demographic.
- The reduction in activity of rangatahi 15 to 17-years-old requires further insights to understand what has impacted this change. From the Active NZ 2020 results we know that 46% of young people had a drop in an organised sporting context.
- Long-term changes in physical activity behaviours are less clear. Future insights captured regularly will help us to identify opportunities to sustain/mitigate inactivity.
- Going from no activity to some activity has well-evidenced wellbeing benefits. Therefore, the 2% increase of adults at a population level becoming active is important.
- Walking is low cost, has low barriers for participation, and has played an important part in individuals' physical activity through lockdown. The value of recreational facilities and outdoor recreation assets cannot be overstated.

Sport Manawātū activities impacted by the 2021 lockdown included the following:

- Cancelled:
 - the Governance breakfast in October
 - eight events supported through the Sport Event Partnership Fund (Marist FB, NZ Basketball x2, Softball Fast45, Sir Gordon Tietjen's rugby 7s, NZ Barbarians 1st XV, Lower North Island Hockey, and NZ-Muslim Inter-district championships)
 - the Everyone Active Festival as Sport Manawātū wants to understand the implications of supporting vaccine-only delivery, while considering how we achieve our vision of 'Everyone Active'.
- Postponed cycling skills delivery in schools.
- Rescheduled:
 - two pop-up play activations around the city
 - suburb engagement activities (stakeholder meetings with community groups).

In addition,

- Decreased number of applications to the Tū Manawa Active Aotearoa Fund
- Decreased number of applications to the PNCC Active Community Fund

Safety plan reviews (code plans and assessing sporting events being hosted to the city)

Following on from our six-month report being presented in March, Sport Manawātū has continued to provide guidance to our sector in response to Return to Play guidelines and to provide sector guidance on code safety plans under the Government's traffic light framework. Our strategic partnership status with Council meant that we were to coordinate and review codes' Return to Sport safety plans moving from the four alert levels to the Traffic Light Framework. This enabled Sport Manawātū to assist codes where needed in the development of safety plans while also ensuring winter sports were 'game ready' to resume seasonal competition.

Here is a recent snapshot:

- 14 code safety plans reviewed (nine endorsed) in Jan/feb
- Indoor sport codes all operating with security measures/spectator restrictions easier to enforce
- CET Arena allowed codes to adapt under RED
- Significant challenges for codes to deliver programmes/activities to members under RED
- The impact on sporting events (national and local) has been significant on the city's economy

Staff Appointment

We welcomed Nigel Fitzpatrick into the role of Active Transport advisor in January. Nigel has a wealth of experience within local government and spent several years with the MidCentral Public Health unit. We're excited to see Nigel lead our Active Transport plan which will involve support, guiding and promoting active transport initiatives and strategies to increase participation.

Everyone Active

Planning is underway with our Recreation Advisor who will be developing a virtual event to encourage physical activity participation. This is in response to our RED restrictions and our decision to cancel the Everyone Active Festival which was scheduled in April. Virtual activities will promote community health, wellbeing and being active during the month of March.

Healthy Active Learning (HAL)

A new direction for Sport Manawatu and our approach to support inactive tamariki in the last six months is the Healthy Active Learning initiative, an action under New Zealand's Child and Youth Wellbeing Strategy. It is a new joint initiative between Sport New Zealand and the Ministries of Health and Education with the intention of supporting schools, Kura, and early learning services to improve child and youth wellbeing through healthy eating and drinking, and quality physical activity. The criteria to become a Healthy Active Learning School during the initial phase of the initiative was to be a decile 1-4 primary or intermediate school.

Following a period of building relationships with the senior leadership team in each school that fit the criteria six schools in the Palmerston North region opted into the initiative:

- Awapuni Primary.
- Cloverlea School.
- Longburn School.
- Milson School.
- Te Kura o Takaro.
- Terrace End School.

The initiative will last a period of three years before the criteria expands to include more schools in the region.

Draft support and funding policy review

Late last year Sport Manawātū submitted on the Council's draft Support and Funding Policy review held in December 2021. Key points included Sport Manawātū supporting:

- the policy objectives and proposed principles
- the proposal to establish 'partnership agreements' with sector leads
- the proposal to direct funds from the strategic priority grants to fund partnership agreements.

Sport Manawātū also supported the proposed criteria for the fund supporting major events. However, we feel that the selection of some of the major events (specifically those with a sport focus) cross over in areas that can also be funded through Sports Event Partnership Fund (SEPF). A Council officer appointed on the major funds committee and the SEPF committee would decrease the potential of 'double dipping'.

Having said that, we believe that combining the funds under one administrative process would risk the SEPF being considered transactional by applicants. Sport Manawātū staff have been able to use the SEPF application process to contribute to the growth of local sporting associations capability and capacity. It has taken considerable time and energy to build and grow these relationships that, in some cases, have led to long-term legacy pieces including the Softball facility at Coronation Park.

Importantly to us, the fund is no longer viewed as simply covering event costs for some codes. Rather, it has enabled the committee to secure multi-year agreements, with provisions put in place that benefit our grassroots communities. The SEPF panel, which includes Council, CEDA, and Sport Manawātū, has made significant strides to align SEPF decisions to Council strategies, while key stakeholders i.e., facility managers have a better understanding of their role in helping to consider 'value add' models to attract and retain events to the city.

Sport Manawātū expressed concerns that the strategic opportunities created through the SEPF may be lost if it were to be pooled under the one funding administration. Our thinking considers the recommendations identified from the Sport Event Partnership Fund review which investigated the benefits and support for an attraction and retention plan.

The review also highlighted the need for the panel to take a more strategic approach to event attraction and retention with measures to be assessed as part of our up-coming contract renegotiation with Council. One of the most important retention tools we have is the ability to sign sports events under a multi-year agreement of which we've made some positive communications with Basketball, Volleyball and Badminton.
